Privacy Notice

PRIVACY NOTICE

For us to provide you with financial products and services we need to collect, use, share and store personal and financial information about you. This privacy notice aims, among other things, to inform you about how SBISA undertakes to keep your personal information secure when providing you with financial products and services. This information includes information you share with us, information that we gather during the course of our relationship with you as client, as well as information about your marketing preferences. This notice also sets out your rights and how you may protect them.

PERSONAL INFORMATION- Collection

Personal information is data that can be used to identify you. This information includes but is not limited to names, age, identity numbers, registration numbers, addresses and other contact details, income and payments records, financial information and banking details.

We collect your personal information in the following ways:

- Directly from you when you complete an account application form.
- Indirectly from you when you interact with us electronically. We may collect information from you, such as your internet address and server logs. (All internet banking sessions are encrypted and personal information is stored according to internationally accepted banking information security practices.)
- Directly from other sources, such as public databases, as well as other financial institutions, credit bureaus, fraud prevention agencies; or indirectly through your interactions with third parties.

PERSONAL INFORMATION- Use

We may, with your permission if required, use personal information we collected in a number of ways, for example:

- To identify you.
- To provide you with financial products and services.
- To assess your creditworthiness.
- To detect and prevent fraud and crime.
- To detect and prevent money laundering.
- For audits and debt collection purposes.
- For statistical analysis.
- To meet our obligations under an agreement with you.
- To comply with legislative requirements.

We may record and monitor any communications between you and us and use these recordings to verify your instructions to us, to analyse, assess and to improve our services to clients.

We will not sell your information to third parties and will only market to you in accordance with our legal obligations and your marketing preference, using the communication method you chose.

We may communicate with you by post, phone, SMS, email and other electronic media, including mobile applications or online banking services, about products that may be of interest to you.

You may ask us to stop or start sending you marketing messages by informing us in writing.

It is your right to refuse to provide personal information, but you must keep in mind that this refusal may limit our ability to provide the required financial services to you. It is important to note that SBISA will only collect information from you that is necessary and relevant to the service or product to be provided.

No information will be collected without your prior consent or as prescribed by law. We will not use information collected about you for marketing purposes you have not consented to.

PERSONAL INFORMATION- Disclosure

We will disclose your personal information to third parties outside of SBISA only under the following circumstances:

- We have your consent to do so.
- We are required to do so by law.
- It is necessary to protect our legitimate interest, your legitimate interest or the legitimate interest of a third party to whom the information is supplied.
- It is in the public interest to do so.
- We have to meet tax reporting requirements.
- We are ordered to do so by a court of law.

Protecting SBISA's interests may sometimes require the disclosure of specific client information to third parties. Where required to protect the public interest, information regarding a client's debt may be disclosed to credit bureaus or debt collection agencies.

When sharing your information with recipients in other jurisdictions, we will ensure that they adhere to similar privacy protection requirements as we do – either by law or by legal agreement.

We are committed to ensuring that your information is secure. To prevent unauthorised access or disclosure, we have put in place suitable physical, electronic and managerial procedures to safeguard and secure the information we collect.

PERSONAL INFORMATION- Retention

We will retain your information only for as long as we need it, given the purpose for which it was collected, or as required by law (including tax legislation) and any other statutory obligations (including anti-money-laundering and counter-terrorism requirements).

Your information may be retained for varying periods from the end of our relationship, depending on regulatory requirements. We will take all reasonable steps to destroy or deidentify the personal information that we hold when it is no longer required.

COOKIES

We make use of cookies to personalise your repeat visits to our website by determining how you use the site. Cookies are very small text files that may be stored on your computer or mobile device when you visit a website, enable images or click on a link in an email.

We use cookies to identify which pages are being used. This helps us analyse data about web page traffic and improve our website to meet your needs. We only use this information for statistical analysis purposes and then the data is removed from the system. Overall, cookies help us provide you with a better website by enabling us to monitor which pages you find useful and which you do not. A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us. You can choose to accept or decline cookies. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser setting to decline cookies if you prefer. This may prevent you from taking full advantage of the website.

UPDATE OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

Should you wish to verify the information we have about you or request an update or amendment of such information, you may contact our head office in Rosebank or contact 011 7784500.
